Williams Gateway Airport Releases New Website Design

MESA, ARIZ. --- Williams Gateway Airport recently released a redesigned website. The new version allows for more streamlined navigation that makes it easier to locate information.

“We are really excited about the new layout,” said Information Technology Services Manager Bill Mitchell. “Website visitors will appreciate the clearly identified subjects, improved graphics and new features.”

The Airport’s website has proven to be popular, attracting over 5,100 visitors in August. Many of the popular pages are still on the new site, including an employment opportunity page, a pilot page, and a community relations page that addresses many residential inquiries about the Airport’s development plans.

“Many of the popular features are still on the site,” Mitchell said. “However, we have improved the site with additional features such as a search engine, marketing videos, and a photograph page that showcases the latest aircraft to come into the Airport.”

The Airport is owned and operated by the Williams Gateway Airport Authority, which includes Mesa, the Gila River Indian Community, Gilbert and Queen Creek. For more information, visit www.flywga.org.
